Manage the risk of COVID-19 at the workplace

SafetyCount Pandemic provides an easy and efficient way to perform daily screening of the COVID-19 exposure risk of your employees. Its automated guidance supports safe and healthful working conditions for employees and aids in the recovery of your operations.

“Workers who believe that their employer provides a safe and healthy workplace are more likely to report for work during a pandemic. Clear communication promotes confidence in the employer’s ability to protect workers.”

— OSHA FactSheet:
Protecting Workers during a Pandemic

In three easy steps, SafetyCount Pandemic collects the vital information you need to protect your employees and to make decisions to manage your business:

Sign up and Send link

First step is to sign up for an account to create a unique Company page and send your Company page link to your employees

Health Information

Before they report to work every day, have employees fill out an online screening form with automated directions for their next step

Analyze and Decide

View and analyze the data submitted by employees to understand their status to help manage your operational decisions and plans

SafetyCount Pandemic is a web-based application requiring only a browser and access to the internet. SafetyCount Pandemic has an employee interface to be used daily by employees, contractors, and visitors to your building, facility, jobsite, or any other place you wish to screen people before entry. A separate Admin interface provides Screening Reports and Resources for management.

BCG is offering two free months of SafetyCount Pandemic to help in Opening Up America Again. There is no obligation to continue past two months; in fact, we don’t even collect payment information when you sign up. After two free months (from date of sign up) costs are as low as $0.25 per person/per month. Enterprise organizations even lower.

SafetyCount Pandemic is brought to you by Business Contingency Group (BCG).
